The Anti-Counterfeiting Group is a company limited by guarantee incorporated in England & Wales.
Registration number: 1984849. Registered office: 3 Manor Courtyard, Hughenden Avenue, High Wycombe, Bucks HP13 5RE

WHO WE ARE Founded in 1980, the Anti-Counterfeiting Group (ACG) is internationally respected as one of the world's leading specialists in the fight against the growing global trade in counterfeit goods. ACG is a not-for-profit trade association that is committed to representing our members, who own over 3,000 of the world's most prestigious brands. Together, our members help to contribute over 45% (13 million) jobs in the UK and £650 million to the UK economy.

OUR BUSINESS ACG is the voice of business in shaping an effective response to one of the world's most insidious and menacing transnational crimes.

The global trade in counterfeit and pirated goods is a $461 billion¹ criminal business, run by organised international gangs. Overall the UK market in fake goods is now worth £9.3 billion and represents 4% of all UK imports. This costs the UK economy estimated losses of £1.3 billion in unpaid tax, which could be used for essential public services. Instead it falls into criminal hands and is used to finance human trafficking, drugs weapons and child labour. Worryingly, almost 40% of fake goods detained at European Borders have proved to be potentially dangerous to consumers. These included food and beverages, body care articles, medicines, electrical goods and toys.

WHAT WE DO ACG works relentlessly with Government and law enforcement agencies to shape an effective deterrent to counterfeiting, to protect business and consumers from the increasing dangers. We provide active assistance and intelligence to Government agencies and constantly work to change public perception about counterfeiting, by exposing it as a sinister crime that damages our economies, destroys jobs and increasingly threatens the health and safety of consumers.

HOW WE WORK ACG understands that no single agency can tackle this international problem alone and more effective multi-sector partnerships and approaches are needed. ACG remains committed to being at the centre of the UK's fight against the malicious impact of counterfeiters and their deadly trade and our mission is to empower multi-agency partnerships and to strengthen international collaboration. To do this we work every day to enable collaborative actions against counterfeiters, helping to steer more effective Government and Enforcement strategies, policy and evidenced based actions.

Our Intelligence Coordinator holds a vital position within the group, acting as a special point of contact and reference for business and enforcement, by gathering and collating intelligence enabling operational support and advice to UK enforcement authorities. As a result, in the past year ACG members have helped to facilitate numerous operations against counterfeit traders, which have netted over 100,000 fakes.

One of ACG's most important functions is to provide effective liaison between law enforcement and rights holders. We focus on delivering training in practical events including our Intellectual Property (IP) Roadshows, dedicated Border Force training and Brand Protection practice events. These are held across the UK and Ireland. We also provide a comprehensive Guide to Brand Protection.

ACG is also at the centre of an international network of information, advice and contacts on all aspects of IP protection and has a direct link to UK, European and international anti-counterfeiting authorities. These include Interpol, Europol, the World Customs Organisation, the OECD, the EU Observatory on IP Infringements, and the United Nations Interregional Crime Institute. We also play a key role in advising policymakers on plans, regulations and strategies to improve protection and enforcement on the ground. Our recent Manifesto sets out how we believe this should happen and our key drivers.

- Play a lead in prompting and driving national, European and international partnerships, collaboration and co-ordination in Intellectual Property enforcement
- Strengthen multi-agency cross-border co-operation and strategic working with partner organisations, in the UK and overseas
- Assist in the development of Government policies, strategies and tactics aimed at combating counterfeiting
- Improve awareness of the growing threat from counterfeiting to Intellectual Property (IP), business consumers, as well as local and national economies through more widespread media channels
- Raise timely and authoritative understanding about members' positions and concerns in relation to policy, strategy, regulation and enforcement, including resource issues
- Participate in industry-wide initiatives to raise greater public perception about the value of intellectual property (IP) and the harm caused by IP crime
- Encourage and drive more effective use of conventional and alternative laws, including confiscation proceedings against counterfeiters under the Proceeds of Crime Act 2002 (POCA), Premises Closure Orders, civil prosecutions etc.
- Build members' and wider stakeholders' understanding about the use and development of intelligence-sharing and collaborative actions
- Further develop knowledge and training about counterfeiting and Intellectual Property (IP) enforcement through IP Roadshows, Border Force and Brand protection training
- Help to raise specific knowledge and awareness by supporting, promoting and contributing to consultations, conferences, seminars, lectures, symposia, trade fairs and exhibitions
- Provide effective and responsive working groups and forums for members to discuss matters of common interest
- Continue to develop wide-ranging and varied services to members, including roundtables with key intermediaries, partners and stakeholders in the Intellectual Property (IP) supply chain

- Access to a dedicated Intelligence Coordinator to help raise awareness of your counterfeiting issues with law enforcement
- Direct input to UK & EU lobbying, policy development and public communications
- Members' interests promoted via ACG's profile and influence with government, law enforcement, the media and other IP protection interests worldwide
- Special seminars on enforcement issues, free to members e.g. Internet, working with law enforcement, updates on law and practice
- Council, and special interest groups for information-sharing, advice and action
- Secure log-in to a dedicated Members Area on the ACG website www.a-cg.org
- E-circulars for instant news about relevant legislation, enforcement issues and international developments
- Regular e-Newsletters and reports with latest news round-ups, targeted to areas of interest for members
- Networking at ACG events to meet like-minded professionals to share ideas, learn best practice and build strong relationships
- Enforcement liaison: nation-wide Intellectual Property Roadshows, Border Force training and internal meetings
- Global links to industry groupings and other anti-counterfeiting organisations
- Free access to the ACG Guide to Brand Protection
- Advice and support from experienced ACG experts on counterfeit issues
- Special interest groups for information sharing, advice and action
- ACG D-G representation on the Observatory Expert Groups' Screening Committee
